I am posting these photos from an article shared by Tan Sri Jemilah Mahmood, who is now Under Secretary General for Partnerships at IFRC (International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies). Many thousands have fled Myanmar and are now across the border in Bangladesh, and are living in terrible, unimaginable conditions.

Please donate directly to the Bangladesh Red Crescent or to the IFRC because every little bit helps, or just share with your friends what is happening in a country far away from ours.

More than 74,000 migrants from Rohingya arrived in Cox's Bazar since October 2016

Access to clean water is a challenge facing many people living in the informal settlements around Cox's Bazar. Most live in shelters that offer little protection against tropical storms
